PUZZLED THE LINGUISTS.

No One Thought to Address Him in English.

Schneider, you know, was held up until the immigration people had found his baggage. But Schneider said nothing, even though they put him in the detention pen with a lot of Slovaks and a handful of Liverpool stowaways. Schneider had arrived on the Majestic, and he was sad. He really objected inwardly to the loss of his things, because he said so afterward. But that was all subsequent to the fun he had had unwittingly with the immigration inspectors.

It is a well-known fact that these immigration people speak more languages than you hear in two months on the entire East side. Only once have they been stumped, and that was when a Hottentot, Bushman came along with a few labial gymnastics that set a-guessing every man on the island.

While Schneider was moaning in the pen Chief Clerk Lederhuger came along. Chancing to observe the melancholy appearance of the man, he turned toward him. Now it happened that Schneider, besides having a sort of Teutonic air, wore clothes of unmistakable German origin. So naturally Lederhuger addressed him in German. "Sind Sie Deutsch?" he asked. Schneider humped up his shoulders, spread out his palms and shook his head.

"Funny," murmured the clerk to himself, "I would have sworn to it, too."

And Schneider stood with a curious look upon his face while the chief clerk went after the French interpreter. Presently Mr. Lederhuger returned with the French inspector. Calmly and confidently the interpreter strode smiling toward Schneider, and when in range hurled out explosively: "Etes-vous Francais?"

Again Schneider shrugged his shoulders and nodded negatively.

"Well, well," said the chief clerk. "I'll just get the Russian interpreter now. He'll fetch him, surely."

So pretty soon the Russian interpreter came along, easy and pop-sure of getting Schneider down to a fine point.

"Just you watch," said he, "I'll get him."

"Hi," said he, walking up to the moody immigrant, "Zawarte Pa Ruski hay. Redden Sie Yiddish?"

Schneider moved his seat hastily to another part of the room, where he sat violently shaking his head. It was painfully evident that he didn't understand. It was also evident that he was beginning to become alarmed. By this time all the other interpreters had heard something was up, so they came streaming in by ones and twos and squads, and up the stairs and through the doorways and one after another addressed him. And all the while Schneider's alarm rose higher and he sat with a look of great apprehension upon his face.

"Just let me try him," said the Italian interpreter: "Hi—Siete Italiano—si?"

Schneider bobbed his head negatively and protested with his hands. Then they surprised him and shot off a bombardment of polyglot questions calculated to confuse the senses of a polar bear, which at best is always calculated to keep cool.

"Habla usted Espanol?" cried the Spanish interpreter.

"Konne tolla Svensk?" roared the Scandinavian.

"Thiggin thu Gaelicadh?" piped a man that had a smattering of Gaelic.

"Cmwyvur fan ffacken?" was the taffy of the Welsh inspector.

"One pau murish po Ruski?" yelled the Polish interpreter. "Che pau Polish?"

By this time Schneider was backed up against the wall with his hands outstretched to ward off the horde.

"Maybe he's a Hottentot!" some one roared, and a red-faced man leaned over and screamed: "Ki bobbiri Walli? Ki bobbiri Walli?" But then some one cried out in English: "That ain't Hottentot, you mud-hen. That's Hindoo-stanee!" Then Schneider began to yell, too.

"Hay," he cried, "what is this, anyway—a lunatic asylum or what? Lemme out!"

"Good lan—" said the inspectors, "he's an American!"

"That's what I am," said Schneider, "and I want to get out." And he got—N. Y. World.

The physical existence of mankind is something like an account in a ledger. Health on one side—disease on the other. All the pure air, good food, rational exercise and sound sleep go on one side of the account. It sums up health and strength. On the other side, are bad air, poor food, overwork, and worry. That foots up weakness and disease. When your appetite or sleep is disturbed, when the stomach and liver are not working properly, or the bowels are not in regular condition; you are losing vitality and strength, figures are going down on the wrong side of the ledger. Unless this is stopped and the other side of the account is built up, you'll soon be a physical bankrupt.

The most profitable account a sick man can open in his ledger of life is with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a wonderful and scientific tonic which imparts a direct and healthy stimulus to the entire nutritive organism. It strengthens the digestive fluids and the liver, and enables the blood-making organs to produce pure, red, highly-vitalized blood. It is not a mere temporary exhilarator. It feeds the constitution with genuine, permanent power. It writes big, round sums on the health side of the account, and wipes out the figures of weakness and disease. It animates the vital forces and builds up healthy flesh, muscular energy and nerve-force.

For nearly 30 years Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. His formulas are everywhere recognized as the most effective remedies in the world. His "Pleasant Pellets" are the most perfect and scientific cure for constipation ever invented. They are not violent in their action, but perfectly sure, and at the same time comfortable. Their great reputation has called out a score of imitations, which druggists sometimes try to substitute, but there is nothing "just as good."

NEVADA AND PROSPERITY.

Nevada has an area of 110,700 square miles, or 70,848,000 acres. In the ten years from 1880 to 1890 the loss in population, according to the United States census, was 16,505. This loss is attributed solely to the decline in mining, caused by the demonetization of silver. Before the decline in the price of silver the total assessment, including the tax on the net proceeds of mines, amounted to nearly $54,000,000. The assessed value of real estate in those days, though there was not so much land under cultivation as at present, was higher than it is now, and the assessed value of personal property in 1872 was considerably more than twice as much as in 1896. The mines of Austin, Belmont, Eureka, Hamilton, Pioche, Paradise Valley, Unionville, Silver City, Virginia City, Esmeralda and other places furnished a home market and good prices for all the products of the farm and the dairy, and real estate was more valuable than it is to-day. In 1890, according to the reports of the County Assessors on file in the office of the Surveyor-General, there was in the State 8,873 cows, 7,172 beef cattle, 124,817 stock cattle, and 291,236 sheep and lambs. In 1896, according to the same reports, there were 6,953 cows, 9,278 beef cattle, 115,162 stock cattle, and 976,949 sheep and lambs. In 1890 the wool product was 1,579,800 pounds; in 1896 the wool product was 2,314,000 pounds. There was a decrease of 9,675 in beef cattle since 1890, and an increase in the number of sheep and lambs of 84,713 in that time, showing that sheep have increased, notwithstanding the low price of wool, while stock cattle have decreased in the last six years. The assessed value of real estate was also a little more in 1890 than in 1896, though it is not supposed to be affected by the tariff.

It is asserted by many stockmen that the range is now stocked to its full capacity, and that a dry season similar to that of 1889-90 will cause a loss of stock. If this assertion is well founded there cannot, under existing conditions, be any material increase in the sheep or woolgrowing industry without a corresponding decrease in the cattle business. More land must, therefore, be reclaimed from the arid region before there can be any material increase in the general prosperity of Nevada, if we rely exclusively on the agricultural and grazing resources of the State. It is, therefore, apparent to everybody that the mining resources of the State must be developed to insure general prosperity. We have inexhaustible mining resources, the most general and extensive of which are gold and silver mines. In nature gold and silver are inseparable. Those metals have an affinity for each other and are invariably found in combination in the ground. In Nevada as a general rule silver predominates and with few exceptions the mines will not pay at the present low price of silver. Many of the mines are not rich enough in gold to pay for working them, but with silver at its coinage value hundreds of mines in the State, which are now closed, could be profitably worked. Why then, should any resident of Nevada, no matter what business he is engaged in, object to the demonetization of silver and vote for a party that is opposed to it? Should not every man in the State, whether engaged in woolgrowing, in cattle raising, in producing wheat, potatoes, hay or onions, farmer, mechanic or laborer, by voice and vote do all in his power for the party that is pledged to restore silver to its historic place as a money metal?

It is wonderfully strange how energetically the gold press of the country to convince the people that W. J. Bryan is a man to be turned down. For weeks the railroad pass chestnut has been cracked over and over from one side of the country to the other and has been a sweet morsel for the goldbugs to roll under their tongues and they appear reluctant to give it up for fear they will have nothing else to talk about. If Bryan is not even a Presidential possibility in 1900, as some of the gold papers claim, then why make all of this rumpus. The truth is, however, that Bryan has the best of any argument his political enemies are able to offer and they can only resort to the misrepresentations, contemptible misleading assertions that have been published and republished the past few weeks. There has been the policy of the goldbugs ever since the nomination of Bryan at the Chicago convention. They could not attack his record or character, or even the cause he represents, with any substantial argument, but are compelled to hunt for some trivial transaction in which his cousin, business partner or some other such person was engaged in ten or fifteen years ago.

SENATOR MORGAN, in a speech in San Francisco, stated that the Government had agreed to let the Union Pacific syndicate have the Government lions on the road for $45,000,000, and the syndicate was about to capitalize the road at $336,000,000. The speech created a sensation in Government circles and a cabinet meeting has been held to determine what to do in the matter, as the swindle is too palpable to permit it to be consummated without protest. It was one of Cleveland's jobs, but to make it effective it has to be sanctioned by the present Administration.

PRIZES FOR PAYING TAXES.

Spanish Methods Offer Irresistible Inducement to Gamblers.
"The Spanish method of raising taxes," observed a gentleman who had just returned from Cuba, "are somewhat in advance of anything in our own country. In nearly all the taxes levied there is a special prize for certain persons who pay taxes, arranged so that all taxpayers stand an equal chance of securing the same, or, at least, they suppose they do.
"It is a kind of lottery attached to tax collections. Each twentieth, thirtieth or fiftieth payer gets a prize or drawback, by a schedule which is arranged by the authorities, daily, or weekly. Persons who have no property pay taxes just the same as those who have, through the royal Havana lottery, which is run by the government. The police, sell the tickets, and every person has to buy one at least once a week. For this ticket they pay about what would be in our money 12 cents. They stand to win prizes all the way from the capital, which is the largest, prize down to a prize ten times as large as the price of the ticket. For instance, $25,000 worth of tickets are sold every week. Of this the authorities are willing to pay back some weeks $5,000 and alternate weeks $10, 000 in the way of prizes.
"The Cubans are gamblers born, and they rush after these tickets as regularly with the avidity they go after their morning coffee and brandy. While they can't always get just the particular number they want, they can get numbers near to it or that end or begin with the numbers they desire to hold.
They know that there will be some prizes come out of the wheel, for the government knows that the scheme would fail unless there were returns in the shape of prizes. The members of the royal family or persons in position are always remarkably lucky in the matter of drawing the capital prizes—that is, the prizes of the larger sums—and, curiously enough, there is not much kicking about this. The police require even the street tramps to buy at least one ticket a week. It does not need much effort, however, for the average man and woman in and about Havana are bound to have a ticket even if they have to forego a meal or two to get it. Now and then, of course, the street tramp draws a prize, and he is thus encouraged to invest again.
"The weekly drawings are entirely independent of the monthly or grand drawings, when the capital prize sometimes runs up as high as $10,000 in Spanish money.
"Often I have seen the priests of churches selling lottery tickets from a stand erected just outside the churches.
The churches in this way pay their own taxes, the sale taking place after each of the morning services on Sunday.
By this means the government raises a very large amount of money. The prize feature of it, or lottery, makes it very attractive, and people pay a great deal of money without even knowing it."—Washington Star.

On the Frontier.
Mustapha Bey—Hark!
Effendi Bey—Hush!
"Did you hear it?"
"Yes, what was it?"
"It sounded to me like swish, swish, swish."
"It sounded to me like creak, creak, creak."
"Hail! I have it!"
"So have I."
"It is the stiffly starched skirts of the Grecian army, crossing over the frontier line."
"That's what."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Witness in a Spring Suit.
Lawyer (to timid young woman)—
Have you ever appeared in a suit before?
Young Woman (blushing)—Y-yes,

"Please state to the jury just what suit it was."
(With more confidence)—"It was num's veiling, shirred down the front, and trimmed with a lovely blue, with hat to match."
Judge (rapping violently)—Order in the court.—Boston Watchman.
